Assistant Professor
Wayne State University

Expert in Gender and Women's Studies, Race, Rhetoric,
Rhetorical Criticism

The Wall Street Journal post regarding Dr. Jill Biden's credentials received tremendous attention for its insensitivity - especially amid international regard to diversity, equity and inclusion. Research has shown that this was not an isolated event.

Join Dr. Mixon & the COSW Career Development Committee for an interactive discussion to acknowledge women's accomplishments and provide tips for self-advocacy.

Gift card drawing for those who attend. Must be present to win!

Dr. Anita Mixon

Received her doctoral degree in Communication from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign where she specialized in Rhetoric and minored in Gender and Women's Studies. Her research examines institutional rhetoric via the intersections of race, gender, and identity-formation in urban enclaves. Her dissertation, "Women Speaking in and for Institutions: A Rhetorical History of the Politics of Respectability in Black Chicago, 1919-1939," explored the early twentieth century Chicago urban enclave, Bronzeville. She interrogated the ways in which Black women utilized agency, decorum, and respectability politics to navigate the church and labor.
